Message from the Head of the European Commission Representation

Barbara Nolan
Head of Representation

I am pleased to present the 2023 Activity Report of the European Commission Representation in Ireland.

2023 was a significant year for Ireland in the European Union. It marked the 50th anniversary of accession to the then-European Economic Community in 1973. Throughout the year, the Representation organised and participated in a series of events to celebrate this milestone. The highlight was a gala concert in the National Concert Hall in Dublin on 9 May, Europe Day, which included a powerful performance of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony, the official anthem of the European Union.

The year was also important for gender equality in Ireland and ahead of International Women's Day in March, the Representation hosted a panel discussion on how the EU has advanced gender equality and examined the recommendations of the Citizens' Assembly on Gender Equality.

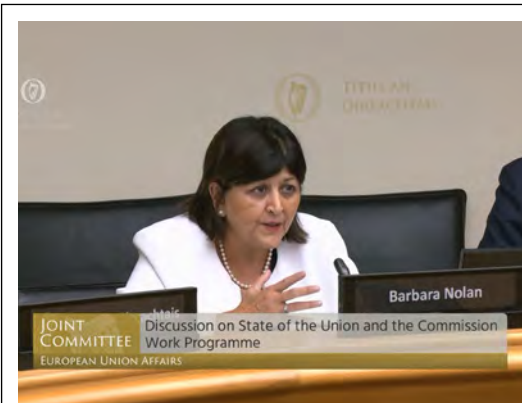

2023 saw Russia's unjustified war of aggression against Ukraine enter its second year. The Representation has continued to reaffirm the EU's unwavering support to Ukraine, and its commitment to peace, freedom and democracy. In June, a major milestone was the decision of the European Council to open accession negotiations with Ukraine (as well as the Republic of Moldova). In November, the Representation was pleased to host a panel discussion on best practice for countering Russian disinformation, in cooperation with the Ukrainian and US embassies as well as Ukrainian Action in Ireland.

I was also pleased to be invited by the Oireachtas EU Affairs Committee in October to discuss the highlights of President von der Leyen's 2023 State of the Union address as well as the Commission's work programme.

In a year of many important political, economic and social challenges, we continued to facilitate dialogue between the Commission, the government and stakeholders when we hosted visits by Commissioners and high-ranking representatives of the Commission and other EU institutions.

I would like to thank all the participants in our many events, the organisers, NGOs, representative bodies, schools and all those who contributed to our activities throughout the year. Particular thanks goes to Mairead Mc Guinness, European Commissioner for financial services, financial stability and Capital Markets Union, who has actively supported the Representation's work and enhanced its impact. I hope you find the information in this brochure on our main activities in 2023 interesting.

Happy reading!

European Commissioner

The year 2023 was extremely busy and productive for the Representation. So very well done on the breadth of engagements with groups, large and small and with events - from school debates, to engagements with journalists, to the now annual stand at the National Ploughing Championships. All of this outreach is essential for the work of the Commission. These engagements provide opportunities for Brussels and Ireland.

During 2023, we celebrated Ireland's 50 years in the EU. It was a chance to reflect on how much Ireland has changed since 1973, including as a result of EU membership - but also the contribution that Ireland has made and continues to make to the European Union. We also commemorated 25 years of the Good Friday Agreement, reflecting on the value of peace on the island of Ireland, and how the EU can continue to support that peace.

The global position of the EU was challenging in 2023 and it remains challenging. Geopolitical upheaval and economic uncertainty mean that the issue of competitiveness has come to the fore, and ensuring the single market is fully realised so that European businesses can continue to grow and prosper remains crucial. Sustainability and achieving our Green Deal targets also remain a priority, but we need to make sure that we bring people with us - the dialogue on the future of agriculture is a prime example of this; showing farmers that we appreciate their work, value their contribution to food security and want to ensure that they are a key part of a just and sustainable economy and society.

The European Commission proposed initiatives to support citizens' right to have access to cash and the right to use cash when shopping, as well as future proofing our currency - the euro, with a digital euro. And in the emerging area of AI (artificial intelligence), the EU is leading the way to ensure the technology is explored and used wisely to the benefit of society while having in place sufficient safeguards where needed.

In June, we will have European Parliament elections and I would encourage everyone to use their vote; active democracy is crucially important for Europe to remain strong and part of people's lives.

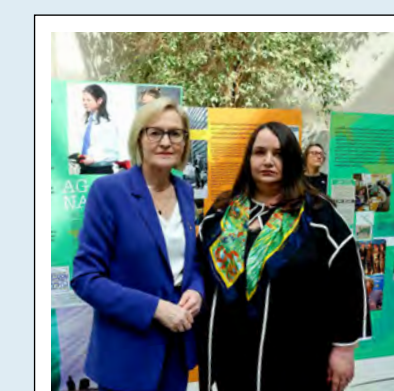

As the European Commissioner from Ireland, I was very happy to participate in a number of the Representation's events in 2023, to be out and about in Ireland meeting people and listening to how the EU impacts on the lives of citizens. This outreach is vital for the EU and I look forward to continuing this public engagement in 2024.

To mark Europe Day 2023, in May Commissioner McGuinness visited Aston Village Educate Together National School in Drogheda where she was presented with her portrait.

EUROPE DAY CONCERT AT THE NCH

On Europe Day, 9 May, Tánaiste Micheál Martin, together with the Representation and the European Parliament Liaison Office in Ireland, hosted a gala concert at the National Concert Hall commemorating Ireland's 50 years of membership of the European Union. The concert included a special performance of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony by the National Symphony Orchestra accompanied by an 'EUSO Choir'.

2023 STATE OF THE EUROPEAN UNION ADDRESS

European Commission President Ursula von der Leyen's address to the European Parliament on the State of the European Union in September is the pinnacle of the EU political season.

On 13 September, the Representation hosted a hybrid panel discussion assessing the key themes from the speech.

Speakers included Senator Lisa Chambers; Catherine Day, former Secretary-General of the European Commission; and Dan O'Brien, Chief Economist of the IIEA. The discussion was moderated by Professor John O'Brennan of Maynooth University.

THE PLOUGHING CHAMPIONSHIPS

The Representation participated in the National Ploughing Championships in Ratheniska, Co. Laois, once again in 2023. The EU tent was visited by Agriculture Minister, Charlie McConalogue and several Irish MEPs.

MODEL COUNCIL OF THE EU DEBATE FOR SECONDARY SCHOOLS

The Model Council of the EU debate competition is the Representation's annual event for secondary schools. It mirrors the format of a real meeting of the Council of the European Union.

The 2023 event took place in Dublin City Hall on 21 March, and the theme was green energy.

Shauna Walsh and Maeve Murtagh from Scoil Muire agus Pádraig in Mayo, representing Poland, won first place and went on a trip to the European Parliament in Strasbourg.

The magnificent Dublin City Hall provided the backdrop for the debate on the European Green Deal.

VISITS BY COMMISSIONERS

In January 2023, Commissioner McGuinness joined Minister for European Affairs, Peter Burke TD, to launch a new postage stamp to mark the 50th anniversary of Ireland's accession to the European Communities.

Commissioner McGuinness visited a number of primary schools that participate in the Blue Star programme, which teaches primary school pupils about European cultures & the EU.

On one of her visits to Ireland throughout the year, Commissioner McGuinness attended the open day at the Directorate for Health and Food Audits and Analysis of the Directorate-General for Health & Food Safety in Grange, Co. Meath.

Sharing Peace, Sharing Futures

The celebration of the 25th Anniversary of the Good Friday Agreement gathered together EU Commissioner Mairead McGuinness, Tánaiste Micheál Martin, Taoiseach Leo Varadkar, UK Northern Ireland Secretary Chris Heaton-Harris and EU Commission Executive Vice-President Maroš Šefčovič on the stage of the Abbey Theatre in Dublin.

Solid cooperation between the European Commission and Irish and UK governments resulted in the start of the new PEACEPLUS programme in 2023. This will result in an investment of some €1.14 billion for building reconciliation and greater prosperity across Northern Ireland and the border counties of Ireland.

On an eagerly anticipated visit to Ireland in November 2023, EU Environment Commissioner Virginijus Sinkevičius held talks with Taoiseach Leo Varadkar and Agriculture Minister Charlie McConalogue on improving water quality in Ireland and the future of Ireland's derogation from the EU Nitrates Directive.

STUDY VISITS TO BRUSSELS

School teachers on a visit to Brussels in July 2023 met with Commissioner McGuinness

The Representation organised 6 study visits to Brussels in 2023. Irish journalists, teachers, economists, trade unionists and environmentalists had the opportunity to travel to the heart of Europe and learn first-hand how the EU institutions work.

They met with Commissioner Mairead McGuinness and Irish MEPs and discussed topical issues with European Commission experts.

Some environmental NGO representatives travelled to and from Brussels by 'slow travel', taking a ferry and two trains instead of a single flight, proving that sustainable travel is a viable alternative even for short journeys from Ireland to the continent.

GROUP VISITS TO EUROPE HOUSE IN 2023

In 2023, we were delighted to welcome 17 groups to visit the Representation and participate in our information sessions about the European Union.

Visits typically last 90 minutes and include a presentation on the EU, a short film about Ireland and the EU, a Q&A session, and for our younger visitors, an EU quiz.

The profile of our visiting groups in 2023 ranged from primary school students, aged 10, up to adult learners at post-Leaving Certificate, degree and masters level.

We met students from across Ireland including Dublin, Meath, Cavan, Galway, Kildare and Tipperary. We also welcomed visitors from Italy, Denmark, Sweden, France, the Netherlands, and Norway.
